

We're counting the days. It's now only 9 until we depart from Bangkok for our furlough back in the U.S. There is still a lot to do before we're ready to go, but we're thankful that the next week looks to be a relatively quiet one. Jeana is also hoping that God will use the time to bring a change in the weather to Michigan.

Thank you to everyone who prayed for Tim's teaching time with the DTS team from Hawaii this week. It went very well, and he was very encouraged by the response and attitudes of the students. What a privilege to be able to influence the lives of those who will go on to influence other lives for the Kingdom! Their team will now be splitting up into three groups who will be involved in ministry outreaches to Indonesia, China, and Bangladesh and Nepal.

The staff training that Tim and Ian were to lead next week has been canceled because many of the staff had conflicting commitments. However, he was recently asked to do some teaching at a local church in Bangkok on Wednesday which will be a good opportunity to disciple new believers in the area of developing Intimacy with God. After that, it's packing for the trip home. Following are a few prayer requests that we have, please:

1. Please pray for Tim as he prepares the teaching for next week that it would be the appropriate words that God wants to share with this specific group.
2. Please remember our flight home in prayer. Lydia has begun to crawl, and is not happy when she doesn't have the freedom to move. We will need Grace, Protection, and Distractions for our kids on the long trip.
3. Radt, who served as Tim's Thai assistant in the National Office and recently returned to her home in southern Thailand to begin a new ministry, is going through a difficult season. I have attached a copy of her most recent newsletter to this message. Please keep her in prayer.

Thank you for standing with us!
