

Discipleship Spotlight Story: Robin Meyer

During my 8 or so years at Madison, many people have helped me grow, including Pastor Kristi, who helped me start to think more deeply about my relationship with Jesus. It was by her encouragement that I chose to do Stand Up and profess my faith. James Abney has always been an encouraging voice when it comes to using my musical gifts in worship. My dance family, including those who first introduced me to dance, have helped me to unlock my gift for dance and helped me use it for God's glory. In more recent years, LeMarr Jackson and Megan Donohue have been an encouragement as I am growing in my faith and going deeper with God. They are not only helping me grow in my faith but to apply my faith to the world around me.

I have served in Children's Church for about three or four years now, but only regularly in the past two years. I had a great experience in Children's worship and always remember admiring the high school and middle school leaders. Part of why I have enjoyed helping the Children's' Church kids grow in their faith is because I appreciate being able to take what I have learned and pass it on. I think Children's' ministry is a great place for kids to begin to go deeper in their journey with God, and I want to be a part of that journey.

Growing up at Madison has helped me appreciate the value of what I know and the importance of passing it on. Madison has also helped me recognize the power of children and young people. I think that young people can sometimes be just as good teachers as those who have lived longer. Madison has helped me come to know how loved I am. I hope that, in the future, I can help someone else know how loved they are.

Career is a very difficult question for me, because I am blessed with many abilities and see the appeal of so many career paths. I would like to do something with music at some point in my life, since I have musical gifts and enjoy making music. In the recent past, I have considered pursuing a career in criminal justice, because I can see how much injustice there is in our world and I want to do something, even if my impact is small, to change that. Engineering, philosophy, and writing also have various appeals to me. I continue to pray for God's guidance in finding the path he has set for my future.
